

The Burning Mind Project: Creating a Culture of Radical Innovation in Technology Education

Morgan C. Benton & Nicole M. Radziwill
James Madison University
Department of Integrated Science & Technology

Why?

- Morgan:
 - Technology Changes Rapidly
 - Traditional Syllabi Don't Cut It
- Nicole:
 - Creativity and Innovation are Required
 - Want to Model Innovation Culture

The Ten Principles

Foundational

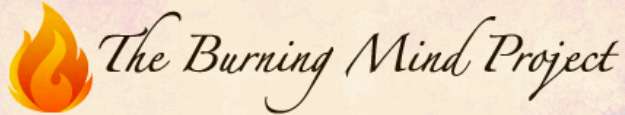

1. Civic Responsibility
2. Immediacy
3. Gifting
4. Decommodification
5. Participation

Operational

6. Radical Inclusion
7. Radical Self-Expression
8. Communal Effort
9. Leave No Trace
10. Radical Self-Reliance

How?

- Morgan
 - Choose-Your-Own-Grade
- Nicole
 - Grading by Accumulation
 - Bootstrapping Labs
 - Projects as Gifts

For the mind does not need filling like a bottle, but rather, like wood, it only needs kindling to create in it an impulse to think independently and an ardent desire for the truth.

Join Us

-Plutarch

About The Ten Principles Blog Forum Inspired Words

Search

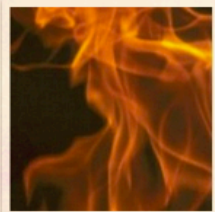

Radical Self-Expression is Risky

By Nicole Radziwill On September 12, 2013 · Add Comment

Like 60-odd thousand other people, I'm psychologically and emotionally adjusting to my departure from Black Rock City. I'm sure I'll post a lot more about it over the next few months, but for now, I'm simply lamenting the loss of radical self-expression as a community virtue, and feeling a sense of sadness that it isn't [...]

Read Full Article →

Burning Man: Quality and Innovation in the Spirit of Deming

By Nicole Radziwill On June 1, 2013 · Add Comment

The new article Morgan and I wrote for the Journal for Quality and

Our Vision

Inspire people to share their gifts!

Our Mission

The mission of the Burning Mind Project is to operationalize the gift economy in higher education through the systematic application of the Ten Principles.

Brightly Shining Partners!

Recent Posts

Radical Self-Expression is Risky
Burning Man: Quality and Innovation in the Spirit of Deming
Students as "Free Range" Chickens
Your Gifts: The Path of the Innovator
At the Gates?
My Academic Civil Disobedience
Seeding a Learning Community: The Results!
Seeding a Learning Community